Free enterprise is exactly that. If local broadcasters can't keep up with technology, shame on them not shame on me! I choose to pay for quality radio with all the perks that it has. I don't like the junk commercials and promotions on local stations but, will be, in essence, punished because the NAB can't keep up. why should this be my problem. I strongly oppose any legislation that would effect my right to listen to what I choose to listen to. I pay for this service and, if the NAB could provide programming as good as XM radio, I don't suppose I would have to.
